

LEAD AG TEACHER

SOUTH
AUSTRALIA

agcommunicators.

AgCommunicators, with the support of the South Australian Grains Industry Trust, are proud to offer a new service to support schools to teach and implement agriculture throughout their curriculum more effectively. Through the new Lead Ag Teacher position, Sue Pratt (an experienced agricultural teacher and past President of the Agricultural Teachers Association of SA) can visit your school and help support your team to confidently deliver high quality, engaging food and fibre content.

Access to the Lead Ag Teacher is free for South Australian teachers planning or currently delivering food and fibre programs in Government, Catholic and Independent schools. The Lead Ag Teacher can provide individualised on-site support in:

- SACE Ag programs and administration
- Middle School food and fibre curriculum
- Primary years food and fibre content
- Refreshing and strengthening existing programs
- Developing new programs
- Development of curriculum resources
- Benchmarking
- Links with industry and research organisations
- Connection to ATASA (Agriculture Teachers Association of SA) and its resources
- We can also link you with services available through the newly established South Australian Agricultural Careers Hub.

ABOUT THE LEAD AG TEACHER

The Lead Ag Teacher Sue Pratt is a registered teacher with extensive experience with food and fibre curriculum development and delivery at school, Departmental and SACE levels. She holds a current Working with Children check, Responding to Abuse and Neglect training and has completed the National Principles for Child Safe Organisations modules.

REGISTER YOUR INTEREST FOR TERM 4 2022, OR TERMS 1 AND 2 IN 2023.

E sue.pratt@agcommunicators.com.au • M 0428 445 171